Self-care and support for you as a manager

Wellbeing guidance for social care professionals: A short guide which contains useful tips to support you as a manager and support your teams.

Registered managers support: Go to the registered manager dedicated webpage to find details of our advice line, Facebook Group, Registered Manager networks, WhatsApp groups and recorded webinar series..

5 Ways to Wellbeing

Connect, Be active, Keep learning, Give, Be present. Based on research, these links both include practical information and top tips or activities to support yours and your staff's wellbeing. Wellbeing for registered managers guide View the NHS guide

Dealing with stress and pressure

This self- support tool has been developed with social care employers, to support staff when encountering difficult situations. You can use this in the workplace by:

- using it as a noticeboard poster
- cutting out the pocket-sized reminder to hand out to staff
- suggesting staff can photograph the tips using their phone – it's a quick and easy way to for them to have access to the information.

Self Help

Mind Wellness Action Plans (WAP): A WAP can help employees to develop approaches to support their mental wellbeing. You can support your team member to adapt it to reflect their experiences or new approaches they find helpful.

Helplines

Our Frontline is a partnership between Shout, Samaritans, Mind, Hospice UK and The Royal Foundation of the Duke and Duchess of Cambridge. It offers a useful toolkit for social care workers which includes:

- Shout provides a free 24/7 text support service for social care and health staff who are working on the frontlines right now. Text FRONTLINE to 85258 to talk by text with a trained crisis volunteer.
- Social care workers in England can call Samaritans' dedicated confidential support line for free on 0800 069 6222, 7am–11pm every day. Staff anywhere else in the UK can call 116 123 to speak with a trained listening volunteer.
- You can also talk to trained staff and counsellors who are experts in bereavement, grief and trauma, provided by Hospice UK and Just B for health, care and emergency workers during the pandemic. Call 0300 030 4434 free and in confidence, 8am to 8pm 7 days a week.

Supporting the social care diverse workforce

COVID-19 is having a huge impact on the mental wellbeing of people from ethnic minority communities. Watch a webinar from Co-Produce Care on how COVID-19 is impacting on staff and what organisations should and can do to help their staff. The panel of experts discuss the history and impact of everyday discrimination, social inequalities and the effect these complex challenges and stresses can have on staff mental health and wellbeing.

Additional support

Psychological First Aid (PFA): This short free online course explores the psychological impact of the COVID-19 pandemic and what you can do to help people cope, as well as the principles of giving psychological first aid in emergencies. It's been produced by Public Health England and is based on international guidance from the World Health Organisation, United Nations and partners.

Psychological and mental health support: Most local areas are offering free psychological and mental health support to health and care workers. These services are usually self-referral without the need for manager or GP's involvement, unless there is a significant risk to a staff member's wellbeing. Evidence shows that getting support sooner, rather than later can significantly improve outcomes and recovery. Local Government Authority has resources here to support wellbeing and mental health; you can also contact your Skills for Care locality manager to find out what's happening in your area and how to join your local Registered manager network.
